Episode #369

Talking with the Doctor

Welcome back! This is the final episode in our 4-part series about going to the doctor.

So far, we learned how to make an appointment, how to check in at the clinic, and how to answer the nurse's questions. In this lesson, we will focus on the conversation with the doctor.

This part can feel intimidating, but with a few simple expressions and some practice, you'll feel much more confident.

Useful Vocabulary and Expressions

Here are some common phrases the doctor might say:

- "What seems to be the problem?"
- "How long have you had these symptoms?"
- "Does anything make the pain better or worse?"
- "I'd like to listen to your heart and lungs."
- "Open your mouth and say 'ah'."
- "I recommend you take this medication."
- "Please come back in two weeks for a follow-up."

And here are some ways you can respond:

- "I've had this cough for three days."
- "It hurts when I breathe."
- "I feel dizzy when I stand up."
- "The pain gets worse at night."
- "I don't understand. Could you repeat that, please?"

Example 1 – Simple Consultation

Doctor: "Good morning. What seems to be the problem?"

Patient: "I've had a headache since yesterday."

Doctor: "Do you have any allergies?"

Patient: "No, I don't."

Doctor: "Okay, I'll prescribe you something mild for the pain."

Example 2 – More Questions

Doctor: "How long have you had this cough?"

Patient: "For about a week."

Doctor: "Does anything make it better or worse?"

Patient: "It's worse at night when I'm lying down."

Doctor: "I see. I'd like to order a chest X-ray just to be sure."

Example 3 – Follow-Up Visit

Doctor: "How are you feeling since your last appointment?"

Patient: "Much better, thank you. The medicine helped a lot."

Doctor: "Great. Keep taking it for another week, and then you can stop."

Extra Vocabulary

- Prescription → a written order for medicine.
- Dosage → the amount of medicine you should take.
- Follow-up → another appointment to check progress.
- Check-up → a general medical examination, even without symptoms.

Now, let's practice with a point of view story.

Point of View-Story

(Learn Grammar)

Now, let's practice with a Point of View Story.

I will tell you the same story, but in different points of view. This will help you practice grammar in a natural way.

Version 1 – Past tense, first person singular

Last Monday, I went to see the doctor. I had been feeling sick for several days, and the nurse had already taken my temperature and blood pressure.

The doctor entered the room and said, "Good morning. What seems to be the problem?"

I explained that I had a cough, a sore throat, and a mild fever.

The doctor asked, "How long have you had these symptoms?"

I told him that they had started three days earlier.

He nodded and wrote some notes on his chart.

Then the doctor listened to my chest with a stethoscope.

He said, "Take a deep breath."

I breathed in slowly, and he listened carefully.

After examining me, the doctor smiled and said, "It is nothing too serious. You probably have a mild infection."

He wrote a prescription and explained, "Take this medicine twice a day, once in the morning and once in the evening. Drink plenty of water and get some rest."

Finally, he said, "Please come back in one week for a follow-up appointment so we can make sure you are better."

I thanked the doctor, took the prescription, and left the clinic. I still felt a little weak, but I was happy to know that it was not serious and that I would recover soon.

Version 2 – Present tense, third person plural (they)

Great! I love using stories like these—they're easy to remember and really helpful for learning English. A bit of humor also makes the process more fun and enjoyable. You can find more of this method in my premium courses.
